1. Identify the text (article, essay, photo, advertisement, video, performance) being analyzed: ✓

2. Is there a title? Y or N Does it appropriately reflect the content of the essay? Explain or make a suggestion: No

3. Write the thesis statement: I choose to write about this because I found it to be the most interesting and insulting toward black people with 40 parts.

4. Does this draft effectively satisfy the definition of rhetorical analysis as set out in the assignment? (An essay that breaks a work of non-fiction into parts and then explains how the parts work together to create a certain effect—whether to persuade, entertain or inform.) Explain: Yes, because it explains the reason why the add negatively affect the targeted audience

5. How does your partner discuss the author's strategies, purposes, and approaches? Reference at least one example that does so effectively and one that needs work:
I. Works well: explains very well the purpose of the add after describing it
II. Needs work: subtitles can help follow through the draft

6. How does your partner discuss the content (what the text is about)? Is it effective? Reference at least one example that does so effectively, and one that needs work:
I. Works well: the draft explains what the work is about at the beginning with pictures
II. Needs work:

7. Is the composition (how the text is constructed) effectively reviewed? Reference at least one example that does so effectively and one that needs work:
I. Works well: gathers for illustration
II. Needs work:

8. Does the analysis use a chronological or spatial approach to describe the text? Not really

9. Identify examples of the following in the analysis:

- I. Logos (logic):
- II. Pathos (emotion): the text is emotional
- III. Ethos (character): the character is present

10. Does the conclusion sufficiently wrap up the analysis by reflecting on the main points of the essay? Explain: I don't think that the conclusion opens up other perspectives

11. Does the selected text properly adhere to APA style? Yes or No If not, what needs fixing? No, References in APA needed
